

ILG MUN IV

What is Model United Nations?

Model United Nations, also known as Model UN or MUN, is an educational simulation and/or academic activity in which students can learn about diplomacy, international relations, and the United Nations. MUN involves and teaches participants speaking, debating, and writing skills, in addition to critical thinking, teamwork, and leadership abilities.

BRIEF HISTORY

Model UN began as a series of student-led Model League of Nations simulations. It is believed that the first Model League of Nations conferences were held in the 1920s, before transitioning to Model UN after the formation of the League's successor organization, the United Nations, in 1945.

FOREWARNING

ILG MUN III strives to simulate the procedural process of the United Nations and has chosen to adopt a THIMUN format to conduct this conference. However, please note that the Rules of Procedure utilized this conference can derive from various other formats used in Model UN. Although, new to some, please don't be afraid to ask the chairs for clarification of the Rules of Procedure during your debates.

THIMUN

THIMUN is organized by the THIMUN Foundation, headquartered in The Hague, in the Netherlands. It stands for The Hague International MUN based in the Hague. Many organs of the UN are based in the Netherlands.

The THIMUN Foundation mission is to promote and foster collaborative solution-oriented discussion to important issues by instilling life-long passion for improving our global community into today's youth, who will be tomorrow's leaders.

Attendants of THIMUN conferences aims to seek, through discussion, negotiation and debate, solutions to the various problems of the world.

Flow of Debate

1. Roll Call

- Present: can vote Yes, No or Abstain
- Present and Voting: can only vote Yes or No

1. Opening Speech. This allows the speaker to announce their stance to other delegates

- Talk about your country's policy on the issue
- Keep it concise: 1 minute long

2. Lobbying. This is the fun part. This can be done through moderated or unmoderated caucus
Moderated caucus: controlled by the chair

- i. delegate who motioned sets the total time, time per speaker as well as topic to discuss

"this delegate would like to motion for a 10 minute moderated caucus with 1 minute per speaker about the dangers of nuclear energy"

- Unmoderated caucus: delegates can talk/discuss with other delegates freely

1. Debate Procedure

- Main submitter delivers the speech on the resolution
- Points of Information (a fancy phrase for questions). The chair asks the speaker at the end of her speech: "Is the delegate open to any POI?"

- i. Any and all. Unlimited POI
- ii. Specific number. You can only accommodate 1 or 2 POIs.

◦ Points

- iii. Point of Information: question to the speaker
- iv. Point of Parliamentary Inquiry: question to the chair about the procedure
- v. Point of Clarification: delegate to ask for further explanation

◦ Points

- Point of Information: question to the speaker
- Point of Parliamentary Inquiry: question to the chair about the procedure
- Point of Clarification: delegate to ask for further explanation

◦ Motions

- i. Motion to introduce resolution
- ii. Motion to set a debate
- iii. Motion for a right to reply
- iv. Motion to move to previous question
- v. Motion to divide the house
- vi. Motion to go for voting procedure

◦ Yields

- vii. Yield to the chair. No need to speak further
- viii. Yield to question. Allows a delegate to ask a question
- ix. Yield to another delegate. Give remaining time to another delegate

5. Amendment Procedure

- Write down the clause/subclause you wish to amend to a note.
- Submit the amendment to the chair
- Raise placard to open a speech - "motion to raise an amendment"
- Chairs can ask for more speakers

6. Voting.

- All procedural voting requires a simple majority ($\frac{1}{2} + 1$)
- Draft resolutions and amendments require a $\frac{2}{3}$ vote

How to POI ?

POIs are simply questions, so they take on many forms. The examples listed below are some very common ones you can use , but you can tailor them to your MUN experience and topics.

1. Defining specifics

"The delegate mentioned that they plan to provide baby bonuses, this delegate would like to ask who exactly is going to provide funding?"

1. Definition

" The delegate had mentioned Teleworking, this delegate would like to ask for its official definition?"

1. Clarifications

" The delegate has stated that they would like to continue providing funding for nuclear power, does this mean that the delegate is for the reopening of closed power plants?"

"Could the delegate explain their policy towards this issue and how it is going to function?"

1. Defining blocs and stances

" The delegate has mentioned that they are against nuclear power -citing security issues. What measures would the delegate like to see to make them more amenable to nuclear power?"

"The delegate says that their nation supports rights for all, however in 2016 their nation passed multiple laws against minority groups. Has the situation changed since then?"

1. Can be used against opposing blocs/ to support your own bloc.

"Is there sufficient evidence to ensure the success of the delegate's policies?"

The delegate has mentioned accepting refugees as part of their solution, however, there is nothing to support the refugees after they arrive in the country. What is the delegate's plan for this"

"What does the delegate think are the most important clauses to focus on to solve this crisis"

TIPS;

1. Take down notes while people are speaking
2. Analyze
3. Word choices usually are very deliberate. So if they are highly specific or use any words that seem complicated. Those words or phrases can easily be POIs
4. Look for subtle meanings to find out the delegate's stances / get them to accidentally agree with you etc

1. Focus

- a. Refer to 1
- b. Sometimes they may deliberately drown their main point in fancy words or rush over them. This could possibly mean that they aren't all that confident in that point. This is an opportunity to ask

1. Don't overthink

- a. Anything relevant to the speech or topic can be asked. Don't think you have to sound super smart with your question.

1. Avoid Yes / No questions

- a. I mean technically you can ask them, it's hard to gain much from it.

COMMON PHRASES

PHRASE	MEANING
"Is it in order to . . ."	Is it allowed to
"It is in order to . . ."	It will be allowed
"It is not in order to . . ."	It won't be allowed
"Debate Time"	Time set for this debate
"Time Constraints"	Restriction of time
"Request for Follow up?"	Can I ask an additional question?
"Yield the Floor"	Give the floor to someone else
"That will be Entertained"	That will be allowed to happen

SAMPLE OPENING SPEECH AND STRUCTURE

Honorable chairs and fellow delegates,

In 1945, the United Nations was formed in the aftermath of WW2 with the fundamental purpose of protecting people from violence and conflict. Today, as the Security Council we come together to uphold this duty to the world.

The Russian - Ukraine crisis has been ongoing since 2014 and seemed to be on the path to a silent, semi-peaceful resolution. However within a few short weeks, it has escalated from whispers of a possible invasion to a live war. Ukraine is now in its 2nd week of war and in that time, both sides suffered casualties.

The human cost of this war is too great. Over 1 million Ukrainians have fled to nearby nations while over 2,000 civilians and counting have died.

Brazil is calling for immediate humanitarian aid to Ukraine. The lives of innocent civilians have been uprooted by this crisis. Thus to limit bloodshed, space for neutral, impartial and independent humanitarian action must be protected at all costs.

Moreover, Brazil calls for the de-escalation of this war. Continuing on will only harm the world, with many countries already suffering from inflation of many essential products - most prominent within Russia.

Brazil is looking forward to all the varied solutions of the delegates.

TIP: you don't have to make your speeches exactly like this, but make sure you have the three key things : Exposition , Why it's important and Solutions.

Note: In MUN, you don't refer to yourself as you because you're representing a country. You aren't allowed to use personal pronouns (such as I, you, me). Instead use this delegate, that delegate, the delegate of [your country], [country].
ex. Brazil would like to propose... This delegate believes ... The delegate of China reiterates and etc. Look at the sample!

RESOLUTIONS

The resolution is the ultimate goal of any MUN conference and is where you'll pursue your proposed solutions to the issues at hand. There are 2 main parts of a resolution :
preambulatory clauses and operative clauses.

Main submitter: Main person writing the resolution or main presenter of the resolution

- Main submitters deliver a Authorship Speech as well as introduce their resolution to the committee
 - Authorship speeches are essentially a 2 minute speech the main submitter has to talk about their resolution

Co-submitter: everyone else writing or contributing to the resolution

Signatory: delegate who wants the resolution to be discussed

Preambulatory clauses:

THIMUN GLOSSARY

Term	Definition	Usage of Term
Abstain	When voting on a draft resolution or amendment, a delegate may refrain from voting yes or no by choosing to abstain.	"Any delegates wishing to abstain please raise your placards high."
Adjourn	Means that session time has ended (usually committees will be adjourned either for a break, lunch, or the day).	"Motion to adjourn meeting."

Admin Staff	Conference staff positioned in committees to help with miscellaneous actions, such as note passing	"The admin staff will pass the notes for the delegates."
Chair Report	A document containing information about the topic sent to delegates to prepare them for the conference.	"The background guide should provide delegates information on the topic."
Bloc	A group of member states cooperating to articulate ideas.	"Several blocs had formed during the second session."
Chair	Moderates the conference and enforces the debate.	"The Chair would suggest delegates to share their thoughts through means of speech."
Delegate	A student representing a member state, observer, or organization at a conference.	"The Delegate of Germany motions for an unmoderated caucus."
Delegation	The entire population representing a member state, observer, or organization in a committee.	"This Delegation believes that draft resolution 1.1 is beneficial to all nations."
Draft Resolution	A document aiming to solve the problems posed by the committee; if it passes, it becomes a resolution adopted by the United Nations.	"Our bloc's draft resolution is comprehensive and feasible."
First Degree Amendment	An amendment that a delegate adds to either add, delete, or revise a clause in the resolution to better the resolution as a whole.	"This delegate has submitted an amendment to the first degree."

Gavel	Small wooden hammer used by the Chairs to bring order to the committee.	"The chair will bang the gavel once at 45 seconds and twice at 1 minute."
Main Submitter	Usually, the delegate that is the leader of the bloc, facilitated discussions during lobbying time and drafted most of the clauses. This delegate reads out the operative clauses before debating on the resolution as a whole and delivers the first speech on the resolution.	"May the main submitter of this resolution please approach the podium and read out the operative clauses."
Member State	A country that has ratified the Charter of the United Nations and whose application to join has been accepted by the General Assembly and Security Council.	"Currently, there are currently 193 member states in the United Nations."
Motion	A specific request made by delegates that may alter the flow of debate. Examples include moderated caucus, unmoderated caucus, suspension of the meeting, adjournment of the meeting, closure of the debate, and move to the previous question.	"Delegates may move for motions and they will be voted upon."
Note Passing	A note that delegates can send to other delegates in the committee during debate and is passed around by the admin staff. However, it is usually screened by the chairs for appropriateness.	"Is note passing in order during this session?"

Observer	A state, national organization, regional organization, or non-governmental organization that is not a member of the United Nations but participates in its debates. Observers can vote on procedural matters (such as motions) but not substantive matters (such as draft resolutions and amendments).	"Permanent observers of the UN include the Holy See and Palestine."
On the Floor	The formal platform and stage where debates and speeches are given.	"Are there any points or motions on the floor?"
Operative Clauses	Statements made in the second section of a draft resolution that details the specific actions sponsors wish to put forth. It has to start with a verb in any form necessary.	"Please read out the operative clauses of the draft resolution."
Placard	A sign with a delegate's country's name printed on it.	"Delegates that wish to be added to the general speaker's list, please raise your placards high."
Point	A specific request made by a delegate to the Chairs, including: point of order, point of personal privilege, and point of personal inquiry.	"Point of personal privilege: could the delegate of the Russian Federation please speak louder?"
Preambulatory Clauses	Statements made in the first section of a draft resolution that outlines the main problems faced and past actions taken.	"The delegate of DPRK believes that the preambulatory clauses of this draft resolution are too repetitive."

Procedural Vote	Voting concerning the flow of debate, such as those of motions.	"Delegates, this is a procedural vote, thus meaning all delegates are required to vote on this."
Right to Reply	A reply to a speaker's comment. It is usually requested by a delegate when he or she feels offended or wishes to reply to a delegate's speech.	"Are there any rights of reply on the floor?"
Roll Call	When the Chair reads aloud all the names of participating delegations in alphabetical order to record if they are present or present and voting (or to record their votes in a Roll Call vote).	"The chair will now be taking roll call. When your delegation is called, please raise your placards and say present or present and voting."
Rules of Procedures	The rules by which a Model UN committee is run.	"Delegates are required to follow the rule of procedures during all sessions."
Second	To vocally agree to a motion.	"The delegate has raised a motion to suspend the meeting. Are there any seconds?"
Second Degree Amendment	Amendments that request changes to a first amendment. They can only be submitted during "time against" the first amendment.	"This delegate has submitted an amendment to the second degree."
Secretariat	The hosting team of the conference.	"We should all thank the Secretariat for their hard work in organizing the conference!"

Secretary General	The leader of a conference.	"We love our Secretary General so much we bought her donuts!"
Signatory/ Co-submitters	A country that wishes a draft resolution to be put on the floor and signs the draft resolution to accomplish this. A signatory need not support a resolution; it only wants it to be discussed.	"A number of X signatories must be acquired for a draft resolution for the document to be valid."
Simple Majority	Fifty percent of the committee plus one delegate (used to pass most votes).	"Since a simple majority has passed, this motion passes."
Substantive Vote	Votes concerning the passage of a document, such as a draft resolution or amendment.	"In the substantive vote, delegates are allowed to vote yes, no, pass or abstain."
Veto	The ability, held by China, France, the Russian Federation, the United Kingdom, and the United States to prevent any draft resolution in the Security Council from passing by voting no.	"China possesses veto rights. That is, it has the right to prevent a draft resolution from passing."
Yield	The process of giving the floor to another delegate or back to the chair.	"This delegate would like to yield the floor to the delegate of the Republic of Korea."
